

Poetry X Hunger

"Bringing Together the Arts & Food Security Education for All".

Recordings of Hunger Poems

Here are a few links to recordings, either video or audio. All are found on the Poetry X Hunger website, and all are freely available for use. Please let Hiram Larew know if you use one of these recordings so that he can celebrate the fact with the poet(s).

If these don't suit your needs, let Larew know. There are many others to choose from on the Poetry X Hunger website.

+ AaronR, Winner of the 2018 World Food Day Poetry Competition. Presenting his winning poems, Hunger Pains and My Name is Hunger.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8sOxTd03kTs&feature=emb_logo

+ Poet Diane Wilbon Parks (Maryland) on Hunger -- Here is a video of Diane Wilbon Parks who expresses her concerns about the state of hunger.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fJXsVnDqXvw>

+ Patience Gumbo, a poet from Zimbabwe, reading her haunting poem, Hunger. The link is to the text of the poem, with a link to the audio recording at the end of the text.

<https://www.poetryxhunger.com/international-poets/category/patience-gumbo>

+ Brian Donnell James, from Manassas, VA and Winner of the 2020 World Food Day Poetry Competition. His heartstrings poem, Testimony, is the first one in this link, and a video recording of him reading this winning poem is at the bottom of the poem's text.

<https://www.poetryxhunger.com/2020-wfd-poetry-competition.html>

+ Laura Mulcahy, Irish Singer and Poet, and her moving song/poem, Sunken Cemetery, 1849, about emigration caused by the Irish Famine.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3ypRiYtVGE&feature=emb_logo

+ Sunu Chandy, Washington, DC, won Third Place in the 2020 World Food Day Poetry Competition for her amazing poem (text only), Do the Math: Spring Quarantine, 2020 Edition.

<https://www.poetryxhunger.com/2020-wfd-poetry-competition.html>